

The FCC should be looking to expand, not contract, the restrictions on cross-media ownership. It would serve the public much better were media corporations prohibited from operating more than one outlet at all.